

Benjamin R. Kuhn, Of Counsel
 919.881.2201
 bkuhn@rl-law.com

With over 18 years of experience, Ben Kuhn focuses his practice on real estate, business, land use, zoning, administrative law, and litigation.

Mr. Kuhn represents and advises commercial and residential developers in connection with a wide range of real estate and business related issues. He regularly represents developers, property owners, and businesses engaged in or affected by the acquisition, development, construction, operation and leasing of commercial and residential properties across the Triangle area and throughout the state of North Carolina. Ben also represents business and individual clients in trial and appellate courts in order to protect their investments and property rights.

Ben also serves as the Consumer Protection Attorney for the North Carolina Bar Association Real Property Section. In this role, he investigates consumer protection issues involving real estate transactions and serves as a liaison between attorney members of the Real Property Section and numerous State agencies responsible for enforcing laws protecting consumers in connection with real estate transactions.

Mr. Kuhn is a Founding Member and Past President of the Real Estate Lawyers Association of North Carolina, Inc. RELANC is a trade association of North Carolina real estate attorneys engaged in advocacy, research, educational activities, and promotional campaigns regarding consumer protection abuses and practices which destabilize communities and are harmful to North Carolina citizens, their assets, real property owners, the financial industry, and the State of North Carolina.

Mr. Kuhn is a frequent speaker and presenter at continuing legal education seminars on real estate and consumer protection issues.
